“ Arallah and I became friends when we were six or seven years old while afternoon students at Yeshivah Beth Yehudah. We were both actively involved with our Rabbi's shabbat experience. We spent time at his home and enjoyed activities Saturday evenings at the synagogue. We never lost touch with one another. Aaron and I renewed our very special relationship in our later years when we were both active at B'nai Moshe. Aaron (Arallah) and I have been life long friends. It was only the COVID virus that interrupted our weekly breakfast bagel and lox sessions. I was shocked and heartbroken when I learned of his passing. May the memory of Aaron's life and good deeds be a blessing to Helene and the entire family.

My mother was Aaron's only sibling and I remember her speaking about R' Silverstein and the Yeshiva. Turns out that I am good friends with R Silverstein's daughter who lives in LA. Aaron still has the letter that R Silverstein hand wrote to him for his bar mitzvah. May His Neshama have the highest of Aliyah's.

Aaron was one of our favorite people. He had the same birthday as my wife, Judy, who treasured Aaron. He always made us smile when he told his stories and his simple bits of wisdom. He was funny and loved life. We will never forget him or his words to end every service on Bnai Moshe Zoom minyans, "Zei Gezundt everyone!" Zei Gezundt, Aaron.

Before Aaron met Helene, he and I dated the same girl. Because he was religious he would date her on Saturday night after Shabbos and I would date her Friday night. By the way Aaron's aunt lived across the street from Shirley. One Friday night while I was with Shirley the doorbell rang and who was there, Aaron. We met. I asked him if he wanted to join us for the evening, he declined. A few months later, I broke up with Shirley and was fixed up on a blind date with a girl named Marlene, I went to her house, rang the bell, and to my disbelief who answered the door? Aaron!

Well, to make a long story short, I marry his sister, the love of my life. I must say Aaron was a wonderful brother-in-law and I will miss him. He is now back with his parents and my Dear Marlene. Aaron, please send her my love and tell her I'll be seeing her soon.
