“ One of my earliest childhood memories is riding on a bike with Boris. It is also one of the happiest memories, when he put me on a bike in front of him and we were riding around the neighborhood in Simferopol Old City where we lived. It is surprising that he remembered that episode too and used to remind me often about it. When I grew up I was a rebellious teenager but Boris for me was a role model. He was a glamorous cousin. He studied in Moscow, and for that you have to be the best of the best. He had a bright personality: he danced, played the guitar and was telling jokes. He had a great sense of humor and always made me laugh. I knew Boris more as a cousin I wish I knew him more as a brilliant engineer and an inventor. It is hard to believe that he is no longer with us. I will always be missing him. Our deepest condolences for the family from my brother Vladimir and myself.
