“ Bradley was a close and dear friend of mine we hung out for the last year every single day and if I wasn't with him he was calling me maybe 5 or 6 times a day what I'm going to miss the most about him is those two o'clock in the morning phone calls about general conversation or him busting my chops everybody knew the abrasive non filter hard person I knew another side of them he really was a kind person he was always willing to help the next guy whether he realizes it or not he helped me an awful lot we had a lot of fun together we would definitely quite the team we always kept everybody laughing I got the opportunity to see through all his craziness opened up to me on more than one occasion what he always wanted was his family to be a father and a grandfather I'm still waiting for the phone to ring I know it's not going to I'm really sad right now but knowing him as well as I did he would say to me I knew you East coast were weak he had more nicknames for me half of them I couldn't figure out and used to call me Lefty I have no idea why and he would say I was from Pittsfield Massachusetts I don't even know where that was I'll look it up in time for Massachusetts he's going to be dearly missed by me and alot of other people he touched many lives but most of all he touched mine my will never be the same I'm going to miss him but I have alot great memories. Detroit this is not goodbye it's until we meet again you were my friend and my brother you are finally at peace there not be a day that goes by that I won't think of you RIP DETROIT your friend Ross
