“ Cj you were always a kind and caring person. I miss talking to you about life and laughing together. It's crazy to think that you have been taken so soon. I cherish being able to have called you a friend. We never got to meet in real life, but we did hang out for years playing phone games of all things. I found it an honor to give you hope and guidance with your personal issues and outlook on life, as you also did with me. your disposition was always sunny. I will always hold a place in my heart for you brother. It pains me to think I didn't get a chance to talk to you recently. I tried calling you today and knew something was not right. I miss you, and love you.

“ This is utterly the worst heartbreak since my mom died when i was little I dont want to let you go I want you to come back this isnt fair you made my life better knowing you and without you in it IT DOESNT WORK, Oh cj why did this have to happen to you cant we just go back in time i promise to come when you invited me. All i do all day is cry i love you and miss you so much. I wish you would have told me you were sick i would have flown to see you in the hospital i dont want you to be gone you deserve to still be here. i will never ever get over you. I just stare at your picture all day crying we finally started speaking again and you left only this time your never coming back. I cant believe this happened I will never be OK knowing i didnt get to say goodbye and tell you how much i cared even after all the years i love you cj i will always love you and miss you and never stop crying for you. love michelle

“ I will always remember his smiling face, and sweet disposition. He was a caring and loving soul. He was so polite and genuinely interested in others.
I hope that the happier times will be remembered.
Love to all Laurie
