“ Mr. Servetter is a teacher who had an absolutely profound effect on my life. He made learning & going to homeroom fun. Frankly, it was one of the most memorable parts of my time at Burton International. He would also take time out after class to talk to the students after class. We would chat and he would teach me a little bit of Russian, just because he knew I was curious.

The greatest legacy that a person can leave when he is gone is in the people whose lives they changed. He definitely changed my life for the better. He taught me that beyond the books and lesson plans, the most important lesson is to always try to learn about and understand people.

Thank you for all of the life lessons you taught me, sir. You will be greatly missed and will always be held in the highest esteem in my heart.

I offer my sincere condolences to the Servetter family and friends.

“ Mr. Servetter was my fourth grade teacher. He was also my favorite teacher of all time. When the boys in the class wouldn't stop throwing balled up papers into the trash can, he turned it into a game we could all play. Because of Mr Servetter I know all my state capitals and survived an elementary school bully. When I needed a challenge in class Mr. Servetter allowed a group of students to create our own spelling lists each week that had words we wanted to learn. Mr. Servetter was beloved by me and countless others. He will be greatly missed.
