“ Mr daniel barg a"h made a huge impact on every girl in camp marom in Ortonville Michigan. Not only did he cook and bake the most delicious foods, he put his heart into it. One example, On rainy days he would make special hot cinnamon buns to start our day with positivity. Always thinking about us and how could he make camp a better place. Mr barg would greet every person with a huge smile, always a nice word. Mr barg would always shmooze with me in the mornings. Mr barg always had some hashgacha pratis story or a lesson to learn. I was so lucky to have a connection to Mr barg. He knew my family from Michigan and he always made my day. Mr barg you are missed by all those who knew you!

“ Daniel a"h and I met for the first time at an Ohr Samayech shabbaton and we were good friends for many years. We both struggled in Toronto trying to get kosher food businesses off the ground at the same time and we commiserated weekly over Daniel's fantastic breads that he baked with his special ingredients. I have yet to taste a better bread...it was unique and wholesome. We lost touch for a few years when he made aliyah to Israel. We followed suit a few years later and he was overjoyed when we turned up unexpectedly at his wedding in Beit Shemesh. He was indeed a Ba'al Chesed, a special person, and would help you out even if he did not know you. You will be missed by all who knew you.

*“ I have known Daniel for many years, however i had the pleasure and privilege to work with him for the last few years at Camp Marom. When cooking for a whole camp, well over a hundred people it is easy to lose sight of the individual. The average person would just be happy to create and serve a complete meal. Not Daniel ! He considered every person, their likes and dislike, their allergies, their preferences, etc. He would make sure that every person, got what they would appreciate the most. For me personally there was always fresh coffee in the morning. On my way to shul, " Eli, it's here when you are ready" if it ever wasn't it was no trouble to make another pot. On the grill there was always chicken (or whatever) on the side waiting for me cooked to perfection according to my tastes. And the list goes on which chef do you know that would drive around the camp with fresh cake telling the boys to come and get it ! The most intense sporting events would come to a standstill when "Mr Barg" arrived on the scene. Our camp kitchen would leave another man running the other way but Danny was more than ready for the challenge. I can do that was a common refrain. He would make fresh challah rather order from the bakery, make his own hotdog buns, and the list goes on and on and on He will live on as an inspiration to all of us who knew him.

“ Danny was a very good friend of ours for years. We will miss him terribly. He was one of the kindest, nicest people to know. He used to come to us for a Shabbos meal on a regular basis and we always looked forward to it, so much that we kept asking him to come more frequently. He was always available to lend a helping hand and a cheerful smile. He faced his challenges with complete Emunah that Hashem runs the world and whatever happened would be for the best. In the last several years since his move to Israel, finding his wonderful wife Esther and being blessed with one of the cutest kids, Shira Gittel, Danny seemed to have finally come into to his own. He was so very happy and adored his family. He took the time on one of his recent stays in America to drop by on Shabbos with his daughter. The joy he felt with his daughter was evident in everything he did. He barely took his eyes off her and watched her with a huge smile as she met some of us for the 1st time and remembered our daughters. Danny and Esther had hosted our daughters during their seminary years in Israel. It was such a comfort, to know that if they ever needed anything, Danny would be there to help them out. This world is a far sadder, more bereft place without him. Words truly cannot express how wonderful he was. We can just see him shaking his head and saying, no, not me, I'm just doing what I am supposed to be doing. It's not a big deal." YES Danny! It was always a big deal, You were always an amazing person and we learned so much about how to deal with life's challenges from you! We learned how to be kind and help out even when we were tired or not feeling so well. We learned how to be "Dan LeKaf Z'chus" (Give the benefit of the doubt) and judge others favorably from you. We learned that life's challenges don't always have to be crises and can be dealt with using calm demeanor, joy in the recognition that we are doing what Hashem planned for us and that we can pass this test too. Thank you so much Danny. Our lives changed for the better just because you were in the world and now that you have gone on to the next world, we will have the lessons you taught us to carry us on without you. " May Hashem comfort the family among the mourners of Zion and Jerusalem". "HaMakom YiNachem Eschem B'Soch Sha'arey Aveilay Tzion V'Yerushalayim"

“ As a Former Alumni Student at Lev Aharon Yeshiva in Israel where Daniel Barg was the cook for a period of time, I have expressed a few words to describe a wonderful man who has Passed Away Monday afternoon in Jerusalem!

While I was there he taught me loads of different cooking skills, tricks etc, and he was a pleasure not only to work with but to do business with. His food was so fantastic and brilliant for all Simcha's and I don't know of anyone like him with such amazing talent and a friendly smile!!

What ever Daniel Barg did he always kept to his word, and he always made sure whatever food he produced it was to a high quality presentable professional standard! He was able to anything and everything no matter how big or small the job is! 😊

He was not only a very good funny friend to me, but I became very close to him privately and always made contact with him from time to time and we would share our news etc!! I shall miss him a lot and I won't never forgot him when I cook!

“ Daniel always had a smile, an open heart, and an open home. He let me know that anytime I didn't want to cook for shabbos he and Esther would be happy to host us, and he would do his best to have his famous chocolate chip cookies for the kids for dessert.

“ Danny was a great friend and a great person. He was a happy person that would always be there for you when you needed some help.

When I came back from Ohr Somayach in Jerusalem, it was Danny that introduced me to the Orthodox community in Oak Park and Southfield. He made me feel so welcome, and introduced me to so many wonderful people. For that I will be eternally grateful. I could also see that the people whose houses that Danny brought me to for a Shabbos meal, really loved Danny, and looked forward to his visits. The kids in these houses loved Danny too, as he was really great with kids too.

When I was back at Michigan State to finish my degree for a year, I decided to have a Shabbaton with Ohr Somayach at Michigan State. Nobody could remember ever having one there before. I had some huge challenges to overcome. First I had to Kasher the Hillel House and its kitchen, as it was not Kosher. Then I had to feed all of the attendees for all of the Shabbos meals. I asked Danny Barg to help me, and he said yes without hesitation. He Kashered the entire Hillel Kitchen by himself. I offered to help, but he knew I had other things to do like organize the classes and Shabbos hospitality for so many people. At first we thought there might be 20 people, then thankfully it grew to 30, then 40. No Matter how many people I told Danny were coming for Shabbos, he said he could handle it...and he did. He just said...we will need to buy more chickens. We ended up with 60-80 people for Shabbos. It was MSU's most successful Shabbaton ever. Danny Barg made it possible, and people loved the food too! People are Frum (religious) today because of that Shabbaton, and I know of at least one couple that met at that Shabbaton and are living happily ever after.

This is just one incident where Daniel Barg went really far out of his way to help, and make his community better, and also be there for his friend. There are so many examples of this attitude and acts of Chesed, kindness by Danny.

I lost one of my best friends today, and I am heartbroken.

May the one that grants true comfort, comfort Dannels Wife and daughter, his Mother, brother and sister from their loss. Danny will be sorely missed.
