“ This is Shlomo Shulman, a first cousin of Lionel, his mother and my father were brother sister.
I fondly recall our visits to the Gorbaty household in Boro Park in the early 70's. where I would watch with awe the brothers discussing medicine around the table and not understand a word that was being said.
There was this dictionary on a stand in the den which was the largest dictionary I had ever seen.
It was a testament to the value education played in that home.
Label, as we knew him, was looked up to as the illui (genius) which my father used to say never forgot a thing. He could quote things he had learned as a child verbatim from dozens of years previously.

On behalf of Joy and myself, I wish the entire family our condolences on their loss.

“ I'm Rosalyn Chriqui, a good friend of Lionel's sister Sheila Silver - in the same class for 12 years. I remember him only from those years, but I could see he was going to be a brilliant scholar. I think all the sons became doctors. It was a very special family.

I too have been a close friend of Lionel's sister, Sheila for over fifty years. Having visited the Gorbaty home many times, I was privileged to know the members of the family. Lionel, as the eldest son was known even then as a brilliant scholar. Baruch Dayan Haemet. Hannah Weinberger Katten

“ I am deeply saddened by the loss of the very special and lovely gentleman. I met him at Meer and for s time at at his table. He was always pleasant, was very very smart, and knew so much about various areas of interest, especially medical and historical. He will be deeply missed, for sure.
