“ It is only today (January 12, 2025) that I learned, on the Internet and by chance, of the death of my dear friend Fima.
We were together: he, his brother Micha and I at Kibbutz Gat, in Israel, in 1973-1974, to learn Hebrew as new emigrants.
Fima and I were bound by a deep friendship. Moreover, his photo has never left the top of the fireplace in my office.
Each having continued his life on his own, we remained in contact by correspondence until 1977.
In 2009, I got back in touch with him and we then corresponded by email.
I regret now having neglected to continue this correspondence, but I would never have imagined that Fima would leave us so soon. He was still several years younger than me.
I hope that these lines will reach his family and especially Micha, who may remember me.
For my part, I will keep until the end of my life the memory of this friend for whom I had great affection.
