“ Life has a way of getting in the way of spending time together, but time does not diminish fond memories of a dear old friend. Late nights spent trying to not make 'kiln bombs' at Camp Tamarack. Drinking wine along the road before I was old enough to buy. Getting a Romano's pizza totally loaded, or making our own French bread pizzas so big you couldn't pick them up. Searching through the used book stores for those elusive Robert Heinlein novels, or maybe a Harlan Ellison. Drinking "cough syrup" (Jägermeister) straight from the bottle. You always insisted that if ketchup was considered a veggie, then Pepsi should be, too. Man, we drank a lot of veggies. Seeing "Spaceballs" and "Innerspace" each twice that one summer day because it was too hot to do anything else. Driving your mother crazy so she's tell us to "go pound sand". Laughing along to all those Tom Lehrer tunes. Late nights playing euchre. Then there's that time with the Jumping Jacks - you just had to light the whole brick and drop it at our feet, didn't you? I'll miss you, friend.

*I will miss him every day for the rest of my life. We met when we were 10 and had remained friends until his death He was my friend through thick and thin and i can still remember the many days and nights that he helped me to study so I could pass a hard exam His pneumonics made me laugh and i still remember them to this day and that was over 20 years ago
Love you and miss you
