Beautiful service. I just finished viewing it. The deer was a beautiful touch. Animals in Judaism signify life and Gods creatures share a special significance in Jewish culture. Remember, life is for the living. Funerals are designed technically for the living so the loved ones and families can rejoice and be together & celebrate in the life of the loved on who passed from this life. My beloved Uncle, your beloved father is not gone into a dark, infinite abyss. Now, there are many different views on what happens after an individual passes on from this life and where do they go. Even Judaism, various different Jews hold different views depending on who they are and what they have concluded their perceptions to be. Even so, death is not final. Many people do tend to hold the notion that is the final straw, the end all & game over. No, while nobody exactly knows where it is we go after we pass from eternal life, I myself personally, do believe & very much would like to believe my loving dad, Harold Feldman, brother of Uncle Herbert Feldman and of loving, blessed memory is in the House of Israel. Some people hold the notion that life does not stop with death but instead move on with other another life or existence in a different realm or place. As this wonderful Rabbi very eloquently stated, " Death is not final. Keeping Uncle Herbie's memory alive, keeps him alive within each of us . He is not gone forever. He is alive in each of us just all the other family members of loving, blessed memory who went before us are also alive in us. Talk about your father and Uncle often, share wonderful and heartfelt memories you shared and created, share photos and speak highly of him to other people who may not know of him but would have found his life and accomplishments and the type of person he was interesting. Do things each day to keep his memory alive and he will live in you, in your soul and in your heart.

“ Dear Jen, Mark & Gary,

I'm so sorry for the loss of your wonderful dad and my Uncle. It is with sadness, that we loss yet another member of our family. I remember when Uncle Herbie came to Detroit to help my mom go over my dad's medical records within a few weeks or so after he passed and it was great seeing him. I was happy to help out my mom along with your dad. Let me just say, and as Jay Schneider so amazingly stated, ' I wish I could say it gets easier, but I would be lying". This is very true. It doesn't get easier. Easier is not the word I would choose. Instead it gets more tolerable to live and be without someone you knew and spent years of your life with. Life does go on as does time and we go forward with life but each day we remember our beloved parent who left this world. Sometimes, I still find myself crying for the passing of my dad. Mind you, I'm age 51 but I miss my dad still so much. There are times I find myself wanting to pick the phone up and call him but I don't know where to call. So, I keep his memory as much alive in my heart and soul as I can. You will have times and days like this. Remember this, spend your time sharing the beautiful memories, the good times and the fun times and the memories you all made with your dad. Think oy of the good and the positive never anything negative. Focus only on the good. When you do this, your dad will be alive in you, he will live within you. Remember too, love one another. This is a time to celebrate life and be with each other and rejoice in Uncle Herbie's memory. Yes Gary, your dad was a brilliant, kind hearted wonderful person. He accomplished anything he put his mind too. I recall some of the sound advice he gave me when I was in going through my undergrad program and his advice was instrumental in helping me succeed. My dad was just as instrumental and I took it all to heart and succeeded. I will always remember this. Gary and Mark, I hear you don't have Facebook but if you want to reach out to me, you are always welcome. My sincere and heartfelt condolences in this sad and difficult time. May peace and love come to you and your family and in time you find peace. God bless.

“ *Dear Cousin Jen, Mark, and Gary;
It was with great sadness that I heard the news of Uncle Herbie’s passing. Our family has suffered a great deal in the past several years first with the loss of your Aunt and Uncle, and more recently mine. I know first hand that nothing I can say will ease your sense of loss or sadness at this time, Heck I wish I could tell you it gets easier but I’d be lying.
While I may not have known Herbie as a parent I consider myself lucky to have had him as an uncle. Seriously he was the perfect uncle guys! Loving and affectionate, generous and sometimes silly.
He spoiled the hell out of me, then sent me home to my folks. Close your “Eggies” Uncle Herbie.*

Man, Doctor, Husband, Father, Uncle, and brother. May your wonderful memories get you through this difficult time. My heart is broken for the loss of a special Uncle.*

I forgot to mention that Dad was a doctor, a business man, and a navy man. He excelled at whatever he put his mind to. Dad was truly gifted in many ways.
