“ I am not sure if this is the Joe Pearlman that I knew. If so, I met Rebecca and Joe and they were the nicest people. My dad was the office manager at Grosse Pointe Food Company and while I was in high school, I worked there part time. My dad's name was Arthur Schultz. Even if this Joe Pearlman is not the one I knew, I still wish to offer you condolences . I hope you have good memories of times spent with him to help you thru this difficult time.
Sincerely, Judy Schultz Ancell

“ Uncle Joe

Uncle Joe was a rock, at least that's how I saw him. He was always the same: undying love for my hilarious and sociable Aunt Becky, a consistent provider and worker bee, quiet and gentle and always bringing whatever extra's they had at work home for the family. He loved his garden and inspired me to care about gardening and plants. He supported his family by being a stable force and always being there for them. He always stood behind whatever Becky said, never defying her or arguing with her. In his own gentle way he understood she needed to vent and gave grace and compassion to her when she , perhaps, said harsh words or disagreed. He wasn't the life of the party, he held the party together by gathering up all of the necessary items needed to have the party, and then quietly waiting in the wings for whatever needed to be done. I am lucky to have seen and known such a man, to know that marriage is supposed to be about supporting and loving your partner and doing whatever you can to make them happy and ease their burdens. Uncle Joe was someone you could count on to be there and knew you could ask him anything. The last time I saw him I asked if I could stay at his house: I was in town and needed to be in Oak Park. He took me to lunch, took me to meet all of the friends that he volunteered with at the Temple and introduced me to everyone. He was so proud to have a family and so proud of me. I felt like a million dollars at his side, as he said, "this is my wife's brother's daughter, my niece Carol." Thank you Uncle Joe for your undying love and being a rock in so many people's lives. May those that knew you be as strong of a force for others in their lives and may your memory live on through all of us.

Your Neice, Carol
