“Mordechai, as we knew him for the past 20+ years, was a proud adherent to Jewish tradition. Living at a nursing home for the recent final years of his life gave him special challenges in terms of how to observe the Jewish holidays and customs. However with the support of a group of special rabbis, Mordechai and his neighbor Stanley were able to overcome many of those religious challenges. Now he can finally rest in peace. May his family members similarly find comfort and consolation from Heaven, secure in the knowledge that their father and grandfather died having found tranquility within the Jewish traditions.

*- Rabbi Avie Shapiro (former religious director of the Fleischman Residence).
