“ Michael was one of the funniest guys I have ever known, most likely the funniest. His humor came naturally. Along with this, he was a strong Jew even at a young age. He was a Maccabee. More than that, he was kind. It was his his kindness that set me on the path I follow today. It goes to show you don't have to be a rabbi to be a leader. Michael is and will be sorely missed.

“ Michael and I came back to my house at about 2am. We got out the chessboard and put on headphones to listen to music while we played. "Good move!" Michael told me after one of my better moves. "Good one, too!" I shot back as Michael advanced. This went on back and forth as the game progressed until Michael noticed my awakened family standing at my room's doorway! Fortunately, they all have a good sense of humor and went back to sleep laughing. Michael and I never did finish the game. Judd Gardner

“ I'm honored to call Michael my friend. We go back almost 50 years and have not lived in the same city for 45 years, but we have stayed close as brothers the entire time.

Michael epitomizes what it is to be a mensch. He is the most passionate person I have ever known, generous, loving, and concerned about others. He loved his fellow Jews and inspired me in many ways.

Michael has experienced challenges from a young age that G-D willing none of us will ever have to face and he did so with courage and faith.

As his children grew up I had the pleasure of spending many trips to Detroit at his lovely home and saw the love and interaction with his kids. It was beautiful.

Michael.... I will miss you forever. Rest in peace my friend and enjoy Hashem's Shechinah you deserve it.

Love you.....Jack Diller

“ I have known Michael for more than fifty years. In my mind’s eye I am able to picture us together at the age of 14 at the Cleveland music hall listening to the grateful dead play ‘Sugar Magnolia’, MICHAEL as ever happy and clapping. As a boy and young man he always took joy in the small things. The enthusiasm that Michael had for relationships, conversation and really getting to know people followed him from boyhood to manhood. His pride in his children and grandchildren always evident. He developed a warm relationship with my daughter Annalena and my wife Claudia always asking after their health as if he had no health problems of his own. As his body began to betray him he was still filled with hope and thankful for what g-d had given him. He never lost hope and he was looking forward to the future. When I last spoke with him on the thirtieth of January I asked him how he was doing and true to his indomitable spirit he said to me’ baruch hashem’. He was one of my oldest and dearest friends and a fine man. I shall miss him greatly..

“ Michael was a warrior and defended for Jews and I will always remember him as such.

Could not have been said better. Got chills reading those words.

Jack Diller - February 08, 2020 at 08:23 PM

Michael, as Zev noted, was a proud Jew and tireless fighter for Israel and the Jewish people. He used to protect Jews on the NYC subway in the '70s and '80s as they were under attack. He was one of the unsung heroes of the Jewish people. He will be missed a great deal.
