A wonderful person who is exemplified in his wonderful children, Sherri, Ari, and Jonathan. I loved his humor and healthy skepticism. So did my late father

“ *Morris was my business partner for over a decade and a friend for much longer. I always cherished that friendship and sound advice he had given me. Andree and Morris joined my wife and I one wonderful vacations and morris joined me for many business trips. I will miss his wise and kind counsel.
He was the true definition of a MENSCH .*

“ A finer person I have never met. A truer friend I have never had. And Morris taught me one of life's great lessons. As a pharmacist he often encountered people in great pain. He was able to not only provide relief from pain, but he taught what a blessing we all have when we are not suffering. Neutrality--or lack of a negative in life--is of itself a great positive.

“ My husband Bill and I met Morris and Andree when our children got engaged. We knew from the start we would be family. Morris had a way of making everyone feel loved. He was kind, loving, humble- a true mench. We spent many holidays and trips together. We spoke on the phone weekly. Morris will be missed but never forgotten.
Rest in peace. Love, Cookie

“ Morris and I first met as fellow congregants of what was then Young Israel of Greenfield. We had much in common as we were both pharmacists. Although he suffered illness for a long time, he never lost his sense of humor. When we called each other before the yom tovim he always said, it's good to hear from a friend who is still older than I am as I don't have many like you left. His wisdom was a gift that came to him naturally and which he readily shared.

My wife Esther and I, along with his family and friends will miss him.
