“ Mom, it's been one month since you past away, and it has been without a doubt the most miserable month of my life. I minute hasn't gone by that I haven't thought about you, wondering where you are, what you are doing, and praying that you are no longer in pain. You have no idea how many times I've wanted to pick up the phone and call you just to hear you say "Hi Dear". Every time I stop to realize that I'll never be able to give you a big hug and 20 or 30 kisses ever again in person, it brings me to tears. Every hug allowed me to say the same prayer to G-d for you...always asking him to keep you Happy and Healthy. You have no idea how much it hurts not to be able to do that anymore. I hope you are back in the arms of Dad, Bubbi and Papa, and reunited with all our family again. My heart is broken, and I can only hope that in time it will at least partially heal itself. I love you Mom...rest in peace.

“ Remember her playing the piano in her house and me eating all her candy. She always said I ate to much. You guys gave her a wonderful life. now she will continue her journey. I am sure her family in heaven and my mom will take good care of her now. Strength to the entire family during this time. XOXO Michael and Ilanit Saxe & Family.

“ When our Elizabeth was born, Reena quietly came to the door and dropped off a complete beautiful dinner including the apple pie she loved to give. She didn't want to visit and disturb us knowing we needed to sleep but she wanted us to have dinner. I never forgot how kind that was. She was beautiful and always so beautifully dressed and I vowed that when I was that age, I wanted to be as elegant as her. And laugh as much as she did. She was lovely and will be missed.
