Samuel Fine, age 97, of Ann Arbor died on April 24, 2024.

Beloved husband of Peggy A. Fine. Dear father of Valerie (the late Alvin) Klaassen, Emily (James) Reyes, the late Lawrence Fine, and the late Geoffrey Fine. Loving grandfather of Bella Reyes, Max Reyes, and Isaac Reyes.

Sam enjoyed a unique and inspiring enthusiasm for learning and life from childhood through age 97. He remained curious, studying languages and taking online college courses into his 90's. Sam delighted in good conversation and seized every opportunity to inquire about the passions and interests of others. A chat with Sam offered a window into his remarkable life experiences which he immensely enjoyed sharing with willing audiences. Both a great listener and storyteller, Sam shared tales from his extraordinary life with zeal and modesty- a fine line to walk and he did it well with graceful execution.

Sam reluctantly retired at age 94 from an impressive creative career. From science and technology to pop culture, my dad never limited how he applied his many talents and would encourage others to do the same. Sam designed the original Domino's Pizza logo and later became head of marketing for the company, playing an intricate role in securing Domino's Pizza into its position as a global brand in the 1980s. He firmly believed and lived by example that there are no limits to what one can accomplish, and that age does not define what's possible with a good spirit and lifelong affection for learning.

His adoring wife, daughters, son-in-law, and three grandchildren are so deeply grateful to have known and loved him, but can assure all, that with Sam, it was never enough time. He was infamous for long goodbyes. He had to squeeze in one more question or one more story with one foot out the door. Sam's final goodbye was impossibly heartbreaking to accept, but he will remain with us in what he has taught us and how he inspired his family and those who were blessed to know him. He is dearly missed and we will continue to celebrate his life and memory for years to come.
