“ We've known each other since we were eight. We played street hockey together when we lived on Kentucky. We went to Bagley together, he used to make fun of me when I was a crossing guard. We went to Hebrew school together, we went to each other's Bar Mitzvah. I remember his mother screaming at him on the telephone when he was late for dinner. "Yes, mother, yes mother". We sort of lost touch when we went our separate ways for college, but we managed to find time to connect when we could. The last time I saw him was at my mother's shiva 16 years ago. So much had changed, especially us. He was a kind soul, had so much more to give, everything ended too quickly. Rest in peace.

“ I laughed with Ted about our mutual love of crossword puzzles. Such a sweet man! Such a shock to know he's gone. May his memory be a blessing for all eternity.
With love, Sandy Kashdan Werner
